Windmills

North Leverton Windmill

North Leverton Windmill, Mill Lane, North Leverton, Retford, DN22 0BA
+44 (0) 1427 880254

The mill was built in 1813 and it has been used as a flour mill since that time. Repairs and maintenance have not affected its appearance and it is very much like the original structure.

http://www.north-leverton-windmill.co.uk/Home.html

This is a working mill and it is open to the public every Saturday. You will need to check the website for times at different seasons. Stoneground flour is always available at the mill and other products are produced, including animal feed. Flour is supplied to local outlets and wholesale flour is provided to the craft baking trade – ring for details.

Flour from this mill is typically like the stoneground product of a century ago. Good wholesome and consistent flour with the character of the miller. I do not often use this flour, but if I am in this part of Lincolnshire I will always strive to buy a bag or two.