Llynnon Windmill

Llynnon Mill is the only working windmill in Wales. It has been restored to pristine working condition and is milling wholemeal stoneground flour for sale in its shop and local outlets. Like many restored windmills, only one stone is working and the other stones are there for examination and display.

The flour is of excellent quality and consistency of texture. It is also a good flour to sift into white flour and bran for those who want white flour without any of the legal additives.

The site boasts a good car park and a fine cafe and shop, having a wide range of gifts and products. On site are also a number of short walks and two reproduction Iron Age round houses which are architecturally accurate in their construction and presentation.
